Not illustrated. 1898 Excerpt: .which swallows up the many facts of its province much in the same way that the sea swallows up its waves. Secondary teachers deal with a tendency in their pupils to combine all primary facts into secondary facts or systems, they have to govern the spirit of their teachings by a still higher principle, and this is the unity of the sciences. We see that, as any given science is a second order of fact, so the unity of the sciences is itself a third order of fact. This survey of the five steps or stages in education and their differences of method brings us to the further consideration of the new era that is now opening for normal schools; for it is evident that no longer can the teaching of teachers be limited to one method, that of the elementary school. It must rather be a comparative study as methods investigating the proper way of presenting a given branch to a pupil in any one of the five stages, and discussing the modifications needed to adapt the subject to any one of the other four stages. In the department of education of the university the students will be taught how to present a branch of study symbolically according to the method of the kindergarten; by typical facts as in the elementary school, scientifically as in the secondary school; comparatively as in the college; as a specialist would investigate it, in the post-graduate course. The...
