Reviews

A whole new eBook with a brand new point of view. It is definitely simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the publication. I am just pleased to explain how this is the greatest ebook i have read during my very own daily life and could be he best ebook for possibly.

Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1914 Excerpt: .man. Here is a hundred pounds of silver. Will you keep it for me until I return? Certainly, replied the neighbor. I will guard it with great care. In both paragraphs the writer is discussing the care of the treasure. In the first paragraph he has placed the conversation of the first merchant and the words that make the meaning of the conversation clear. In the second paragraph he has given the conversation of the second merchant and the words that tell who is speaking. In stories containing conversation, a paragraph is usually given to the words of each speaker each time that he speaks. When very brief descriptions or explanations accompany the words of a speaker, these descriptions or explanations are included in the paragraph with the speaker s words. WRITING AN ORIGINAL CONVERSATION 149 In the first paragraph above, about The Two Merchants, what are the speaker s words? What explanation accompanies them? In the second paragraph, what are the speaker s words? What explanation accompanies them? Read the story, The Two Merchants (page 78), telling the reason for each paragraph division; that is, give the topic of each paragraph. Try to give each topic in a complete sentence, thus: 1. A Persian merchant, about to set off on a journey, intrusted his treasure to a neighbor. 2. The neighbor accepted the trust. 3. Hoping the merchant would never return, he stole the treasure. 4. After several months, the merchant called for his treasure....
