

Africa's place in the international football system

By Mark-Marcel Müller

GRIN Verlag Sep 2008, 2008. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x11 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Master's Thesis from the year 2007 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Region: Africa, grade: 70, Stellenbosch University, 180 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: For millions of people around the globe, football is an important part of everyday life. Similarly, many African governments have found in international football competitions one of the few opportunities to be internationally represented. Furthermore, through successful participation of their respective national football sides, they internally seek to foster nationhood. In fact, football is an integral part of African self-esteem with regards to being recognised by the rest of the world. However, to succeed in international sports means to succeed in a politico-economic structure far from equality and general solidarity. This thesis goes about the question why South Africa received the FIFA 2010 World Cup. Thereby it will distinguish the position of the African continent within the international football system. A historical analysis will clarify the processes and actors as well as the driving motivations which led to the FIFA World Cup host decision in favour of the African...

READ ONLINE
[1.03 MB]

Reviews

This pdf is really gripping and intriguing. it was actually writtern very completely and beneficial. You wont really feel monotony at whenever you want of your time (that's what catalogues are for about in the event you request me).

-- Ms. Gracie Nicolas

A very awesome ebook with perfect and lucid information. It is really simplified but unexpected situations in the 50 % of your pdf. I am pleased to let you know that here is the greatest book i have study inside my very own lifestyle and can be he greatest ebook for at any time.

-- Noah Bruen